One of the most important elements of an effective business plan is a budget. After all, how can you run a business if you don't know how much money you will spend? This will be the driving force behind the rest of your business plan. In this article, we will take a look at some of the different types of budgeting and how you can use them to create a budget for your small business. Formula The first type of budget is a "formula" budget. This is one of the most effective forms of budgeting that you can use. With a formula budget, you will add up the figures from the previous month and add that figure to the next month's monthly budget. This can become more complicated if you plan on doing one-time figures such as variable bills. If you are doing a one-time payment, you will add that up and add that to the following month's monthly budget. Schedule The second type of budget is a "schedule" budget. With a schedule budget, you simply add up all of the figures and add them to the following month's figure. This is a great way to budget if you are starting a small business because you need to predict your monthly budget from the start. Cash Flow The third type of budget is a "cash flow" budget. The cash flow budget tracks the cash that you have b7e8fdf5c8
